Hi Jeff-

See email below that Parks has no more concerns about the parcel we applied for the Intervening Ownership Segregation.

Thanks!

Kari,

Thank you for the assignment document. This is very helpful. I have no more concern in this area.

Do you have all the crossings which were assigned to Plum Creek from Burlington Northern mapped for our future reference?

This would help us tremendously.

Hi Terrie,

When Burlington Northern deeded the Iron Horse Trail property to WA Parks, they reserved access across it. Then BN assigned that to Plum Creek, so it appears that we do have legal access. I am attaching those documents for reference.

Please let me know if you have any concerns or questions. Thanks!

Hi David and Kari,

Attached is an aerial showing Plum Creek and Washington State Parks and Recreation Commission's ownership in Sec 35, T21N, R12E.

The Commission's concern with a subdivision would be if the new property owner(s) plan to cross the Iron Horse Trail State Park they will need an easement to do so.

Currently, to my knowledge, Plum Creek does not have authorization to cross this portion of the trail shown in the attached aerial.

If access is desired, please contact me for further information to obtain access.

Thank you for your help in this matter.

Hi Terrie,

Attached is the title report covering the property. In Schedule B you will see a list of the easements, however you'll see the comment that the legal description is not sufficient to determine the locations. I will forward you the underlying documents in the next email.

I hope this information is helpful.

Sincerely,

A couple of comments:1. Check list indicates no FS roads involved. FS RD 4100 is shown crossing a portion of the section. PC is a Cost Share owner in this road.

2. Is legal access to the new parcels required for this type action?
3. If so, no legal access for two two parcels is shown or indicated and the land prevents most access between the RR R/W and John Wayne trail ( flood area- other ownership ). How is this provided for ? Or is it?
