Rachael,

Thank you for the opportunity to comment. From the lidar and aerial imagery available, there appears to be a channel that the road will need to cross. While likely used to convey irrigation water and/or as a spillway, this channel continues topographically upstream of all upgradient canals and is likely a modified natural channel that appears to ultimately flow to the Yakima River. We recommend a WDFW site visit to determine whether or not an HPA would be required for the new road's water crossing structure prior to approval.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment and please let me know if you have any questions,
Jen
